Submission Guidelines

A clear, respectful first read starts with a prepared submission. Use this guide to present your manuscript and supporting materials with confidence.

Before you submit

Prepare a clean file. Share the details that frame your story. Send only work you have the right to submit.

Stories Today. Legacies Tomorrow.

Preparing Your Submission

Make the First Read Count

Our guidelines are designed to keep the review process clear, focused, and respectful of your work. Have these essentials ready before you submit.

01 Prepare a clean manuscript file

Use a readable DOCX or PDF with page numbers and your contact information.

02 Include the details that frame your story

Have your synopsis, target audience, genre, and short author bio ready alongside the completed manuscript.

03 Send only work you have the right to submit

Submit work you own or have authority to submit. You keep ownership of your manuscript, and submitting does not create a publishing agreement.

The complete guidelines follow on the next page.

Complete Submission Guidelines

Prepare Your Manuscript for Success

Following these simple standards gives your manuscript the clearest possible first read and helps our team review it efficiently.

01 Manuscript Format

Submit a clean document in DOCX or PDF format with readable spacing, page numbers, and your contact information.

02 Content Requirements

Include a completed manuscript, synopsis, target audience, genre, and a short author bio.

03 Document Preparation

Please proofread your file, remove tracked changes, and label supporting materials clearly.

04 Submission Details

Use the Submit Your Manuscript form on the For Authors page at jjlpublishing.com (PDF or DOCX, up to 10 MB). Please keep your own copy. Files sent outside the form may not be reviewed or tracked. We review submissions carefully and respond as soon as we can.

05 Legal & Copyright

You keep ownership of and copyright in your manuscript. Only submit work you own or have authority to submit. JJL uses your submission to review, evaluate and communicate about it. Submitting does not guarantee acceptance or create a publishing agreement. Any JJL imprint publishing requires a separate written Publishing Agreement, and Author Services are governed by a signed proposal or agreement. See the Terms and Privacy Policy at jjlpublishing.com.

06 Looking for Publishing Support Instead?

JJL Author Services help you professionally prepare and publish your own book while you keep your rights and your publishing accounts. It is separate from submitting a manuscript for possible JJL imprint publishing. Start at jjlpublishing.com/plan.html.
